

Recreational Boating Safety Resource Website

auxbdeptwiki.cgaux.org

The National RBS Outreach Department has launched a website called "AuxBWiki." The site is based on wiki software that allows users to contribute their ideas for promoting recreational boating safety without being web experts. AuxBWiki is also a great place to find best practice ideas for promoting boating safety.

Sponsored by the National RBS Outreach Department, the Wiki site provides support for the Auxiliary's RBS efforts in local communities and our partnerships with other organizations like the American Canoe Association, the Boy Scouts of America, and states liaisons.

Supported by the collaborative efforts of the RBS Outreach, Education, and Vessel Examination Departments the website gives Auxiliarists, Flotillas, and Divisions easy access to proven ideas that promote RBS at all levels of the organization.

The Wiki allows Auxiliarists to share their experiences, knowledge, and ideas without the need of technical expertise to write and maintain a website. Not only does this promote effective RBS efforts, it also gives Auxiliarists a sense of ownership of the Auxiliary's RBS program.

The AuxBWiki site can be found at auxbdeptwiki.cgaux.org. The site also includes simple instructions on how to contribute YOUR ideas! A link can also be found on the RBS Outreach Department's website bdept.cgaux.org.

Please contact Alan Dove BC-BRI at bc-bri@bdept.cgaux.org if you have any questions or would like to get involved.
